The Australian made & designed Bug Eater. This bug catcher controls mosquitoes and midges without pesticides or insecticides, safe for organic pest control, because the only chemical it uses is household detergent.

Unlike insect magnets, it requires no refills. It does not blast bits of bug bodies all over the place, like the insect zapper, so it is safe in food areas.

No high voltage grid and no poisons, so it is safe to leave the bug eater in the backyard.

WHERE TO PLACE THE BUG EATER UNIT

Outdoors The Bug Eater is a directional insect control management device used around your outdoor living or business area.

The basic concept is to lure insects away from the areas where you play, relax, cook, swim or work.

If possible position the unit 7mtrs (20 feet) or more from the centre of activity and facing the area, which is to be protected. Being directional Bug Eaters draw the insects from areas you want to protect.

If possible, it should not compete with the setting sun or night lights for the best result and maximum insect's attention. It works on line-of-sight, so the more bugs that can see it, the more it will attract and drown.

WHEN TO USE

For optimum results, your outdoor unit should be operated all night - on at dusk, off at dawn. Maximum efficiency is reached after twenty one (21) days of operation.

The Black light UV tube is not like normal lights as it powers up the contents of the tube, such as lead, mercury and other elements.
